Our Mission is to strengthen and enhance supports and services to children and families.

Core Values

• To provide innovative services that are tailored to the unique needs of the persons we serve.

• To assist persons in our care in establishing permanent family relationships and community connections.

• To adapt to diversity and cultural contexts of the people and communities served.

• To incorporate best practice standards and evidence based approaches in all of our programs and services.

• To provide quality services that result in positive outcomes for those we serve.

Services That Get Results

Alliance Human Services develops and implements systems for assuring quality of care. We regularly collect outcome data to evaluate our effectiveness and make program improvements. We strive to ensure that children and youth in our care remain safe from abuse and neglect, achieve permanency, and experience sustainable wellbeing.

In an effort to maintain placement stability, Alliance Human Services measures the degree to which children are moved from one home to another. Additionally, we determine our success with meeting children’s permanency goals—such as returning home, being adopted, or completing independent living goals—and analyze our services satisfaction with referring agencies, children, and foster parents.

Service Availability

Alliance Human Services provides 24/7 services to the referral source. Placement can happen immediately as long as there is a suitable home to meet the needs of the client.

Person Directed Services

During the initial meeting, Alliance Human Services receives input from the child—who is involved with all aspects of services, including home placement, treatment goals, and assessment of progress towards their goals—and the family. In addition, we collect feedback from weekly meetings with an Alliance Social Worker, and from confidential surveys.

I began fostering 15 years ago, after working in a group home setting for children with complex medical needs.

We chose Alliance Human Services because we were familiar with their work and reputation in the community. They understood the unique needs of each child and parent.

What stood out for us is the support the staff provides throughout the whole process—through special connections with our children, and welcoming interactions with everyone in our home. They allow us to do our typical family routines while also meeting their program needs. We feel respected. They advocate for our family.

The children have taught us what really matters—to become better parents, professionals and most importantly, better human beings.

If you are thinking about becoming a foster parent, I often say this is the hardest and best thing I have ever done. This experience has made me a better person—to correct mistakes and work as a team. I wouldn’t change a thing.
